Project Title: us women's national soccer team in 1999

I want this website to be one long scroll with information in each section having distinct information but all of the sections to feel connected so everything reads like a story. The purpose of this microsite is to highlight the significance and legacy of this team for women's sports in America

- first section/home page: images of the team that highlight their importance
- second scroll: historical background around women's soccer before this world cup
- third: roster and most famous star players on this team
- fourth section: tournament results
- last: why the tournament was so pivotal and this team's impact for women's soccer and sports in general in the us
